

Mathematics Websites

Everyday Mathematics

This site requires that you have your child's logon username and password for his/her teacher. It provides access to online games that are related to their classroom instruction. It provides practice of basic facts and concepts in mathematics to improve fluency and recall. There is also a link to an algorithm handbook with examples for parents to help their children at

<https://www.everydaymathonline.com/>

Math Playground

This site has a video game feel that keeps children interested.

*Games for fluency and recall

*Word problems

*On-line Manipulatives

<http://www.mathplayground.com/index.html>

Learn 21: West Virginia Department of Education

This site is developed by the WVDE and is linked to many good mathematics resources for students. It allows you to choose a grade span (Prek-2; 3-5; etc).

<http://wvde.state.wv.us/learn21/>

Primary Games

This site has many activities that support student practice and fluency in the areas of Reading Language Arts, Math, Science, Social Studies

<http://www.primarygames.com/>

Everyday Mathematics – University of Chicago

This site is through the University of Chicago, the developers of Everyday Mathematics Program. It provides information about the design, philosophy, and revisions of Everyday Mathematics. There are tabs at the top which provide parents with some resources to support you child at home. Our current adoption was the 3rd Edition of Everyday Mathematics

<http://everydaymath.uchicago.edu/>

Alg1, Alg2 and Geometry – Free Homework Help

This site provides free homework help to students using the Glencoe math textbooks. Hotmath displays step-by-step answers, with hints, for the actual odd-numbered homework problems so students can complete their homework with better understanding.

<http://hotmath.com/glencoe/>

AAA Math:

This site is a good resource to help parents at home. It provides additional instruction and review for parents. <http://www.aaaknow.com/>